A wide-angle view of a steep, stone-paved staircase in a traditional Japanese street. The street is lined with traditional wooden buildings, many with colorful signs and lanterns. People are walking up and down the stairs. A large blue banner hangs on the left side of the stairs.

A photograph of a traditional Japanese onsen (hot spring) bathhouse. The structure is made of dark wood with a thatched roof. A large, open-air wooden bath is in the foreground, filled with water. The interior of the bathhouse is visible through the open sliding doors, showing a warm, lit interior with tatami floors. The surrounding area is lush with greenery and trees, creating a serene atmosphere.

A large indoor swimming pool with a stone-tiled deck and a wooden slat wall. The pool is rectangular and has a dark, possibly tiled, interior. The deck is made of large, irregular stone tiles. The wall behind the pool is made of vertical wooden slats. There are some windows or glass panels on the right side of the wall. The pool is surrounded by a low wooden railing.

A woman and a child are relaxing in a hot spring pool. The woman is standing in the water, wearing a yellow swimsuit, and the child is sitting in the water. The pool is surrounded by a wooden fence and a stone wall. In the background, there are green hills and a forest.
